

Irish Postgraduate and Early Career Economics (IPECE) Workshop 2023

EXTENDED

Call for papers

By popular demand we have extended the deadline for submission to the IPECE Workshop.

We invite PhD students and early career economists to submit extended abstracts or full research papers as a pdf file by 28th November 2022, to ipece2023@gmail.com. Please include JEL codes and a short CV in your submission.

Additionally, we are extending the call to include those who would like to be considered for short 'flash' presentations. These short presentations will provide PhD students in their first or second year, or others at an early stage in a research project, to present their research design or work in progress and receive constructive feedback. To be considered for a flash presentation, please submit a brief description (max 200 words) of what you would like to present, together with a short CV by 28th November 2022, to ipece2023@gmail.com.

This year's IPECE Workshop will be hosted by Technological University Dublin on 19th and 20th January 2023. The workshop will be held in person in TU Dublin, City Campus, Aungier Street, Dublin 2. There is no registration fee for the event.

The workshop is aimed at PhD students, postdoctoral, and early career researchers. The meeting will provide an excellent opportunity to engage with research results and work-in-progress in a welcoming and constructive environment. We encourage those working on economics research, based on the island of Ireland, to attend.

The workshop programme includes:

A keynote panel discussion on 'Career Paths and Progression' with advice from:

- Prof. Carol Newman, Professor in Economics, Trinity College Dublin.
- Dr. Sinéad Kelleher, Head of Economics, The Housing Agency.
- Dr. Séin Ó Muineacháin, Head of EMEA-APAC Economic Graph Research and Insights, LinkedIn.
- Dr. Tara McIndoe Calder, Senior Economist, Central Bank of Ireland.

A training session on ‘Common Pitfalls in Causal Research Designs’ given by:

- Dr. Benjamin Elsner, Assistant Professor of Economics, University College Dublin

Please submit your extended abstracts or full research papers as a pdf file by 21st November 2022, to ipece2023@gmail.com. Please include JEL codes and a short CV in your submission.
